

Station Europe is a tech-savvy NGO with programs, networks, and initiatives that focus on civil society, the environment, creativity and the digital world. Our mission is to give young generations the power to bring useful ideas and initiatives to life and to create stories that celebrate diversity and inspire communities to act for a democratic and sustainable future.

Station Europe connects on-site and online dynamics to activate local communities and amplifies the engagement through participatory methods and glocal approaches. All our initiatives aim to empower our target groups to develop new skills and knowledge about the surrounding environment.

/initiative groups

🌍 We created a women-led group of social initiators as part of Understanding Europe, an educational network of 14 European countries, which delivers around 80 workshops yearly to 2470 students in schools and libraries, promoting European values and gender equity. It promotes and advises on educational projects committed to civic participation and a democratic and open-minded Europe.

CREATORS
for CHANGE

🌍 We started Creators for Change 🧑 – a vibrant and inclusive group of young activists committed to using the latest technology and digital platforms to create impactful campaigns that raise awareness on climate justice, food waste, gender equality, and human rights. This group was recognised as one of Romania's top 10 initiatives dedicated to young people and was selected as one of Europe's top 5 Active Citizenship initiatives by the European Youth Award. 🚀 ✨

/initiative groups

🌍 We are coordinating a group of 30+ young people worldwide, forming a Youth Council to fight against the climate crisis. Station Europe is working to teach Young Leaders how to use social media for social good in pursuing their aim as advocates for climate and biodiversity problems.

/workshops and board games

As the designer of Girls in IT, I am proud to have created a board game that promotes gender diversity in the tech industry. This game is an innovative and fun way to learn about various IT careers, with players being guided through popular IT professions and encouraged to consider technical careers.

The First European Moment board game believes that children and young people can be both incredible creators as well as influencers. It is based on the assumption that social media channels can be used to help societies grow. The workshop teaches young people how to use digital tools to create content for social good.

The purpose of this game is to disseminate the right knowledge about the challenges that democracy meets online and also to inspire the youth to find effective solutions to those problems. The project is a hybrid workshop designed as a multiplayer game, where players will be put in the position of active citizens.

We love creating board games, educational products, and interactive workshops on media and digital literacy, climate justice, and democracy.

It is a fun way to engage and teach young people about important social and environmental issues.

We also like that these solutions are very easy to implement in schools and libraries.

Vlogging Academy

for sustainability

We started the Vlogging Academy for Democracy for children from rural areas where they can collaborate, learn, and create valuable materials in connection with European democracy topics, combating fake news and climate change.

Then we created Vlogging Academy for Sustainability - a modular hub created by Station Europe for young people who want to become content creators – using social media elements to raise awareness of problems that they care about. This is an EU-funded project implemented in 4 European countries: Greece, Portugal, Malta, and Romania.

Aisha is an AI avatar, a digital representation of a human in a virtual setting. Through Aisha, we aim to show people that technology and innovations could be used to create social good. Aisha is also used in the "Our Food. Our Future" online campaign under the initiative of Station Europe's AlforSocialGood.

Occupy Library

For this project, we made the visual identity, logo and designed the website from scratch. Also, we created templates for all the visual materials used during the project (social media posts, key visuals, frames).
