Why Diversity Matters

Essentially, cultural diversity is about bringing people together from a diverse set of backgrounds and cultures, then creating an environment that not only recognizes the differences between those cultures and backgrounds

Cultural diversity is about more than just race. It's about all the ways we differ from one another.

Culture is an essential component of each and every society. It is the fabric that weaves communities together and gives them their unique identity.

As such, acknowledging and factoring in cultural diversity is essential to working efficiently with our client countries and adapting interventions to the local context.

Our volunteer usually sent to EU Countries and recently we have sent 35 volunteers to Estonia Finland Ireland and Lithuania, Germany ,turkey .

providing help in their fields or experience such as office coordination and field logistics - teaching language for emigrants - technical engineering in a farm for special demands youngsters - theater acting and work office in a theater organization - organizing civil rights seminars .
